The New York Times

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, JUNE 27, 1985

NEW YORK

Walking for Peace

Walking for Peace

Some talked. In New York, they walked.

The Secretary General and other diplomats marked the 40th anniversary of the United Nations Charter with speeches in San Francisco yesterday. Here, diplomats and staff members at the organization's East River headquarters celebrated in a different way.

On a brilliant, crisp day, representatives from Niger and Bangladesh led about 40 participants in the final part of a symbolic "walk for peace." Unlike so many United Nations ceremonies, this one was marked by silence.

After the walk in the United Nations garden, a small crowd heard Dr. Lamuel A. Stanislaus, chief delegate from Grenada, wish the United Nations many happy retrums and proclaim: "In the pursuit of peace, we shall not the."

Organizers of the two-day event, sponsored by the Sri Chinmoy meditation group, reserved time for citizens from all nations, but only 80 of the United Nations' 159 member states showed up. Seventeen Americans topped the list, with Belize, Ghana and the Ivory Coast also boasting large turnouts.

More than 140 people ambled through the rose garden, taking in the view of the East River and pausing to admire a statue of a powerful laborer beating a sword into a plowshare.

pants in the "Peace Walk for United Nations Day" walked silently through the United is garden on 25 and 26 June to commemorate the anniversary of the adoption and g of the United Nations Charter in San Francisco in 1945. Representatives of Member passed a copy of the Charter's preamble relay-style from one country group to another ent was organized by Sri Chimmoy: The Peace Meditation at the United Nations, and insored by Antigua and Barbuda, Bahamas, Cyprus, Malta, Mauritius, Nepal, Samoa, me and Trinidad and Tobago

The New York Times reported, at top, on the Peace Walk marking the 40th anniversary of the signing of the United Nations Charter. The picture and caption above appeared in the June 1985 UN Chronicle, a publication of the U.N. Department of Public Information.